DEL MONTE, CAL., MAY 11.—THE PRESIDENT AND HIS PARTY ARRIVED AT DEL MONTE THIS MORNING AND WILL REMAIN OVER SUNDAY AT THIS FAMOUS RESORT. THERE IS NO FIXED PROGRAM EXCEPT THE VISIT TO THE GRAND ARMY ENCAMPMENT AT PACIFIC GROVE AND A DRIVE ALONG THE OCEAN FRONT THIS AFTERNOON, AND THE TWO DAYS OF REST WILL PREPARE THE PRESIDENT AND HIS PARTY FOR THE ORDEAL THEY WILL HAVE TO UNDERGO AT SAN FRANCISCO NEXT WEEK.

DECORATING THE CITY FOR THE PRESIDENT.

Work on the construction of a large floral arch at Fourteenth street and Broadway will be commenced on Monday, in preparation for the reception of President McKinley and party. Stumps of flags have already been stretched overhead across Broadway, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Washington and Fourteenth streets and A. S. Macdonald of the decoration committee says that in all there will be thirty-one blocks decorated with flags and emblems.

One of the chief features along the line of decorations will be the Oakland City Hall. The committee in charge has awarded the contract for the labor and material to Tait & Penney for $20, and that firm's expert on decorations, Professor T. E. Inskip, assisted by several men, commenced work this morning. Over 1,000 yards of bunting will be used on the old structure. The city hall tower will be beautifully ornamented.

LOST THEIR FORTUNES IN WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, May 11.—The Commercial Advertiser prints the following interview with J. J. Hill:

"Mr. Hill, have the troubles between the Northern Pacific and the Union Pacific been settled?" asked a reporter.

"There is no question of any trouble. I never myself had any doubt that in the end we should come out all right. And the trouble was not fostered upon the public by us. I did not speculate myself in a single share and I the shares of the Great Northern and of the Northern Pacific, which I have today I shall keep, if I can, until doomsday."

DISPUTE IN THE PAPERS.

"The troubles which have been caused by this dispute," as the papers called it, have been fomented by the papers themselves. When we who are concerned can get together and talk matters over the differences will all be as great as they appear. They will not be impossible of settlement. But

ALAMEDA TRUSTEE IN FIGHT WITH BROTHER.

ALAMEDA, May 11.—A lively fight occurred about noon today between William Hammond, the real estate man, and his brother, Charles Hammond, the City Trustee. The brothers met in front of the home shoe store on Park street, where an exciting conversation took place. Suddenly both men began to punch each other over the head. Charles, who is the younger of the two, wished to avoid violence, turned into the shoe store. In doing so William hit him several good blows on the face. A woman, then realizing the rashness of their act, soon fled.

The trouble between the brothers occurred over a note endorsed by Charles to the amount of $500. About four years ago William Hammond & Son owned a bicycle shop in the old Linderman Theater building. Times were hard and they were compelled to borrow money. A note was given by William for $500, which was endorsed by Charles. For four years the interest has been paid by the latter, and not until about two weeks ago, when a sister of Mrs. William Hammond died in San Francisco and left Mrs. Hammond a part of the estate amounting to about $500, did Charles request a payment of the note. It seems that William refused to settle, and consequently Charles has a badly bruised nose and cheek.

THEY VISITED THE PRESIDENT.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. PACIFIC GROVE, Cal., May 11.—The G. A. R. encampment went into session at 11 o'clock this morning and held an hour's session. The time was occupied mainly in hearing the report of committees. Department Commander Mott, Commander-elect Stone and the encampment officers visited the President at Del Monte this morning to ascertain his wishes regarding his visit to the encampment this afternoon. In accordance with their report it was decided to receive the illustrious guest at 2 P. M. in closed session, after which the present encampment will probably adjourn sine die.

NORTHERN ROAD IS CAPTURED.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. NEW YORK, May 11.—A representative of the Harriman syndicate made the following statement today: "In spite of all that may be said or printed, we stand on our assertion of the past few days that we believe possession of Northern Pacific is now held by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. It may take some time to prove this and it is even possible that some legal trick may be devised to wrest control from us. At this time, however, there is no doubt in our minds that we are in power. As far as the Burlington deal goes that is only indirectly involved in the Northern Pacific controversy and we believe it will go through in due time."

COLLEGE MEN ON THE PATH.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 11.—Yale and Harvard met here this afternoon in their annual track and field contest between the athletic teams of the universities.

There were thirteen events scheduled for the afternoon and points were scored as follows: First, 5; second, 3; third, 1.

LADIES WILL GET PENSIONS.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. LONDON, May 11.—The ladies of the late Queen Victoria's court, after anxious waiting, have learned that they are to receive pensions, although minute ones. Many of these former members of the royal household, although of high lineage, have meager fortunes, and the malis of honor, either found their posts richer in heres than in profit. The excuse for the meagreness of the pensions is the inadequacy of the provisions for the royal expenses. During the last few years Queen Victoria has been unable to make the civil list meet the official expenditure and is obliged to draw on her private fortune. King Edward now has to keep up Balmoral Castle and Osborne House, costing £23,000 annually, though he dislikes both places.

WANTED TO SELL LETTERS.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. WASHINGTON, May 11.—An attempt to sell the confidential communications between the Attorney-General and the Secretary of War in the Neely case was unearthed today by Chief Wilke of the Secret Service. Information had been obtained from Judge John D. Lindsay, counsel for Neely in New York, who had received a letter signed John B. Dickenson, offering him copies of the correspondence. The latter proved to be a stenographer in a government office.

DUCHESS AND DUKE HAPPY.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. LONDON, May 11.—The Duke and Duchess of Marlborough have taken an active and conspicuous part in the Prince of Wales's League meetings this week, always appearing together, as to emphasize that there was no truth in the recent stories of a serious misunderstanding between them. At the reception which Mrs. Fischhoff gave to the league Thursday evening, among the prominent people grouped about the hostess were the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough.

MANILA TRIAL IS ENDED.

MANILA, May 11, 5:35 P. M.—The trial of Captain Frederick J. Barrows of the Thirtieth Volunteer Infantry, quartermaster of the Department of Southern Luzon, on charges connected with the commissary scandals, was finished today. The verdict has not been announced.

CAPE TOWN CABINET.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. CAPE TOWN, May 11.—The South African News today declares it has been decided to reconstruct the ministry. Jameson as Colonial Secretary and Sir John Gordon Sprigg as Premier, Dr. John Gordon Sprigg as Treasurer. The Premier (Sir John Gordon Sprigg) however, authorized a statement that there was no foundation for the reports of the reconstruction of the Cabinet.

J. P. Morgan's Trip.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. LONDON, May 11.—It is uncertain whether J. P. Morgan will return to New York immediately. He desires, if possible, to return to Paris and fulfill an engagement to be received in audience by President Loubet.

AN APPEAL IS MADE TO THE POPE.

Manila—Priests Enter Protest Against Archbishop.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. MANILA, May 11.—A petition is on its way to the Pope, signed by practically all the native priests, against the return here of Archbishop Chappelle as administrator and favoring the return of Archbishop Nozales, who, although in Rome, is still Archbishop of Manila, his resignation never having been accepted. The opposition to Archbishop Chappelle is chiefly on account of his expressed intention to encourage the establishment of American priests in the Philippines. The petition cites an American military order prohibiting the placing of ecclesiastics over people who are opposed to them. There is no probability of Archbishop Chappelle's return or his transposition from the archdiocese of New Orleans. The petition indicates a change of sentiment with reference to Archbishop Nozales. The question is whether the people will favor it. The friar question is dividing. If the friars return to the few localities where they are wanted it is believed this will not concern the Government unless unlawful acts are committed. The question of the ownership of the friars' lands will be settled through suits brought by the complaining towns, rather than on the Government's initiative. Aguinaldo's life is quiet. He seldom goes out and is always accompanied by a guard. There is some representation of his assassination by friends of General Luna or personal enemies.

NO DAMAGES FOR BLACKLISTING.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. CHICAGO, May 11.—In the Driscoll blacklisting case the jury failed to agree and was discharged by the court today.

The case was that of Michael Driscoll against the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Company for $50,000 damages for alleged blacklisting after the American Railway Union strike of 1900. Driscoll was a switchman, and like many others has sued the railroads for alleged discrimination against those who had joined in the strike, advancing the charge that the railroads of the United States have entered into a conspiracy to blacklist every man who takes part in any strike to better his condition and to deny them employment unless the road for which they last worked for give them a "character."

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. WASHINGTON, May 11.—An attempt to sell the confidential communications between the Attorney-General and the Secretary of War in the Neely case was unearthed today by Chief Wilke of the Secret Service. Information had been obtained from Judge John D. Lindsay, counsel for Neely in New York, who had received a letter signed John B. Dickenson, offering him copies of the correspondence. BANK TELLER GOES WRONG IN SOUTH.

Arrested Charged With Being Short $36,000.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—Samuel Flower, paying teller of the Hibernia National Bank, was arrested here today by United States Marshal Fontelle, charged with a shortage of $36,000. The Fidelity and Deposit Company of Baltimore is on Flower's bond for $25,000. It is alleged that Flower, expecting an examination, sent to another bank in this city a government sealed package said to contain $10,000 and received in exchange for it $10,000 gold clearing house certificates of the denomination of $5,000 each. His cash having been counted by the national examiner the evening before and found correct, it is alleged he returned the clearing house certificates to the bank from which he had borrowed them and received in return his unbroken Government package said to contain $10,000. This package was received by the Hibernia National bank from the sub-treasury of this city and contained $1,000 in $1 bills. It is alleged that Flower had preserved a label from an old Government package that did contain $10,000 in denominations of $10 each, which he pasted on the package which contained only $4,000 in $1 bills, thereby making it a $10,000 package to all appearances. This package was opened and counted after his departure from the bank. Flower is a cousin of the late Mayor Flower and comes from one of the most prominent families of the State. He is the son of the late United States Sub-Treasurer, Samuel Flower of this city. His bond for $10,000 was promptly signed when he was arraigned in the United States Court today.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. LONDON, May 11.—A special meeting of the Stock Exchange Committee has been summoned for Monday morning in the hope of reaching a solution of the difficulty in which operators and brokers who have given calls for Northern Pacific for the end of May and July and themselves. It developed today that every share is held by the Morgans and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and therefore the brokers are unable to secure single shares for delivery. The situation has a depressing effect.

OHIO PEOPLE ARE NOT IN HARMONY.

Governor and Congressmen Have a Lively Clash. Both Sides are Anxious to Travel Alone.

DEL MONTE, Cal., May 11.—The Ohio people who are on their way to San Francisco to see the launching of the battleship Ohio are not having the lovely time they anticipated. The Ohio Congressmen and Governor Nash's party have clashed over a question of precedence, and harmony is wanting.

Felt They Were Slighted.

The people of California have been very cordial in their reception of the Ohio party, but naturally President McKinley has received the most attention, and Governor Nash and his party, who are traveling on a separate train, have been a little in the background. At Los Angeles it was all McKinley, and the Ohio gubernatorial party felt slighted. The special heading Governor Nash and other Ohio people arrived here before daybreak and joined the Presidential party. The chagrin that the gubernatorial party expressed over its alleged mistreatment at Los Angeles became more intense during the trip of the last twenty-four hours and broke into open revolt here at conferences in the Hotel Del Monte. Congressmen Go It Alone. The special cars bearing the Ohio Congressmen were attached to the Ohio special at Los Angeles. They seemed to add to the ill-feeling of the Governor's party, who complained that they had been an annexed section to the Presidential party and now were given third place. The Congressmen seemed equally dissatisfied with the new arrangement, and finally it was decided that the Congressmen should travel here.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. NEW YORK, May 11.—With both the Stock Exchange and the Consolidated Exchange closed today and with practically nothing doing on the curb, Wall street was very quiet. SPECULATIVE MADNESS.

Frenzied speculation in stocks has driven the leading operators of the country into such a corner that they are half crazed. In a despairing effort to make deliveries of stock that they have sold but never possessed they have in the case of the Northern Pacific securities offered the fabulous premium of $1,000 a share, and even then are unable to secure enough to meet their obligations. The hollowness of what is going on in this regard becomes apparent when it is remembered that the actual market value of the stock in question is only about $170 a share right now, which in itself seems an abnormal price in view of the fact that it has never paid one cent in dividends. The disinterested spectator, the onlooker in Vienna, can see the foolishness of it all and pity the victim of the craze, but once in a while the human race goes insane over such things and nothing can stop it.

Think of the South Sea bubble and the infamous Law's career as a financier in France, and you will see it is no new thing—this desire to get rich quickly. All adventures live by it, and it is a saying among swindlers that "a sucker is born every minute," which is slang and inelegant, but must be confessed by the student of human life to be forcible and true. In our own country Jackson killed the State Banks, which were, all of them, rank speculations, and finally, when the Civil War was over, such a mass of schemes were foisted on the credulous that it is impossible to chronicle them. In California we have had "wildcat" companies galore, from associations to get gold out of clay down to corporations for the exploitation of diamond fields that never existed. We have had mining excitements of all kinds, the majority of which had no cause whatsoever, and yet they misled many otherwise cautious investors.

It is the same old story now. Anyone might like to possess a few shares of stock that has sold as low as $10 and now sells for $1,000, but it is a gamble, but in the end gambling does not pay. The most desirable citizen in a community is he who earns his money in legitimate callings. The primal curse rests on us all, now as at the beginning, and no good can come to anyone from such unearned, undeserved and unearned increment as is the gambler's profit. The break in the stock market is already in evidence and with it comes an awakening of the victims to their own blind folly. Thousands will be ruined, a few will be worth millions, and then, forgetting the lesson, a few years later the whole performance will be repeated.

A CITY OF ARTISTS.

California students of pictorial art who go far afield for landscapes are foolish. Here, in and around Oakland, we have themes for their brush fully as interesting as those which inspired the great artists of the last century, and wholly worthy of the most towering genius. Though Keith and Jullien and Rollé Pezzer have appreciated this field, as their canvases witness, the new generation seems to overlook it and, in consequence, we have scenes in France and views in South Africa while the best inspiration is neglected.

With European subjects we have no fault to find, but Germany, England and France have their own artists for such work. Our Californians should use their educated eyes nearer home. What Dutch artist would not grow enthusiastic for instance, over the views from the estuary marshes, and where could a more Turneresque effect be found than when the first rays of the morning sun strike this city, as seen from the Alameda shore, with the dim and purple background of the Piedmont hills half obscured by the rising mist? What lofty thoughts must be suggested to the true painter by the panorama of bay and sky and field and town visible from the heights back of town. If the windmills of Holland can develop a genius, one that would be entirely Californian ought to be created by the impressive view from upper Broadway.

Oakland, truly called the Athens of the Pacific, has produced many who have a hallowed fame in the worship of the Muses, but those who have devoted themselves to painting have neglected her. The Raphael, Leonardo da Vinci and Michael Angelo of the past lived, labored and died in their native lands and our artists, if they are to create real works of genius, must do likewise.

Stanford University is about to send out an expedition to collect fossils for the museum there. Steps must be at once taken to protect "Veritas," "Pro Bono Publico," "A Taxpayer," and several other of our esteemed citizens.

Kitchener reports having burned General De Wet's house. This is a grand military achievement on a par with his capture of a head of sheep last week and his fording a dry creek near Bloemfontein.

Now that McKinley is in California, what a lot of people there are who seem anxious to meet him half way.

COUNT CASTELLANE IS SAID TO BE VERY ILL AT HIS PARIS HOME.

Associated Press Dispatch to The Tribune.

PARIS, May 11.—Count Boni de Castellane has been suffering from intestinal troubles the past week. Although his condition is not regarded as serious he has been ordered to take complete rest and his social engagements have been postponed. His case is now diagnosed as the commencement of appendicitis, but he is not thought to be in danger. Inquiry at his home last night, in the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne, elicited the information that his condition was improved.

It's not very often you find a man's wife the busom friend of the woman who thinks she has a mission to help him.

This is the glorious weather in which the business man decides that he will take a little outdoor exercise—as soon as he gets time.

Most every woman believes that nine out of ten men believe they are not getting everything that is coming to them unless they are leading double lives.

The rule to use "naught" instead of "ought" in calling over the telephone sounds funny with a man in a pleading tone calling to Central: "Please give me one naught one."

"No," said Mr. Meekle, "I have never found any occasion to go in for aughts." My wife is one of those women who insists on moving as often at least as once in every six weeks.

"Why did the police commissioners order every saloon keeper to close his front doors and let down the blinds?" "Oh," said the Curbstone Philosopher, winking facetiously, "just for a blind, I suppose."

ARCHBISHOP DID NOT LIKE THE PROFESSOR'S VIEWS ON RELIGION.

Associated Press Dispatch to The Tribune.

MONTREAL, May 11.—Archbishop Dugas of the Anglican diocese of Montreal has made public his reasons for accepting the resignation of Professor Steen as lecturer in the diocesan college, and also for opposing the professor's nomination as special Minister at Christ Church Cathedral. His Grace states that several complaints of unorthodox and unorthodox utterances made by Professor Steen reached him, and upon investigation he was forced to act. Some of these statements are alleged to have been made from the pulpit and are:

"What authority is there for the orthodox view of Holy Scripture at this day? It was not revealed by miracle or by sign from heaven that it is the correct view. Consequently the authority is only human. We say the Bible is the inspired word of God because men think so and have for centuries thought so. The books of the Bible were evidently written by human hands; that God had a share, let alone the principal share, was merely the opinion of the writers or of their contemporaries. These may have been right or wrong."

"I may believe St. Paul's epistles to be inspired, but I have only human authority for it. Only because I think so, and still more, because those in every age who know most about the question thought so, is the reason that I regard them as the work of God."

"On the subject of inspiration of holy scripture I cannot get back of human knowledge or authority; it is not possible to get any authority that is divine. I believe with all my soul that Jesus Christ is the incarnate son of God, perfect God and perfect man; but I must admit my authority fallible and human. I think so, and the great majority in every age, especially the good and wise and learned thought so. If the accepted views of holy scripture are merely the results of human judgment, how monstrous at the present day to deny the human mind the right of passing judgment!"

"The Bible is a narrative of facts and a repository of spiritual and moral truths before it is an inspired book. Every true student must first study the Bible as any other book; it will then be inspired on account of what he finds in it."

To these alleged extracts from his lectures and sermons Professor Steen makes a sweeping denial and charges the Archbishop with a disinclination to grant him a hearing. The controversy will finally be settled by an ecclesiastical tribunal.

CHICAGO ASTRONOMER MAKES THE DISCOVERY THAT STARS GIVE HEAT.

Associated Press Dispatch to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, May 11.—A special to the Record Herald from Williams Bay, Wis., says:

Whether the stars, millions of miles away, send to the earth's surface any heat along with their rays of light, a question which has long puzzled astronomers, has been finally solved. The heat from these far-off bodies has not only been detected but measured. It has been measured by one of the most delicate and sensitive astronomical instruments ever made—an instrument capable of measuring the heat of a candle a mile away.

The credit for solving the problem and for constructing this delicate instrument belongs to Professor E. P. Nichols of Dartmouth College. The experiments were, however, performed at the Yerkes Observatory of the University of Chicago, where Professor Nichols spent two of his summer vacations. The results obtained from these experiments have just been carefully reviewed and computed and sent to Professor George E. Hale, director of the observatory.

Professor Nichols' experiments at the Yerkes Observatory have for the first time proved beyond a doubt that the planets and some of the fixed stars send an appreciable quantity of heat to the earth.

MCKINLEY WILL NOT LIKELY ORDER THE REMOVAL OF PRESIDENT DOLE.

Associated Press Dispatch to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, May 11.—A special to the Herald from Washington says:

Officials who are acquainted with the President's views regarding the legislative situation in Hawaii do not believe Mr. McKinley will be inclined to take notice of the memorial from the Hawaiian Legislature urging Governor Dole's removal, certainly not without a full explanation from the Governor. Great friction exists between Governor Dole and the Legislature, but the President believes the Hawaiians should work out their own salvation and has taken no steps to interfere. Governor Dole so far has acted within his authority in refusing an extension.

PROMINENT OFFICIALS IN URUGUAY ARE ARRESTED FOR CONSPIRACY.

Associated Press Dispatch to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, May 11.—A dispatch to the Herald from Montevideo says:

A sensation has been caused here by the arrest of Colonel Miguel Herrera Y. Obes, brother of a former President of Uruguay, Col. Manuel Rodriguez and Col. Carlos Burgis have also been arrested. There are accusations against other prominent men in connection with the conspiracy against the government. Juan Johnson, who has been taken into custody, has declared that the conspiracy has many followers in the army. He also confesses that the arms found by the police were taken from the arsenal. The political situation is very complicated. Uneasiness prevails throughout the country.

METCALF TELLS OF MCKINLEY.

Magnificent Reception* Suggestions as to the Reception in the Southern Cities. Oakland.

Congressman Victor H. Metcalf has returned from his trip to Redlands, where he went to welcome, with the other California Congressmen, President McKinley to this State, and in detailing features of the reception, spoke as follows:

"The invitation of the Committee of Arrangements, of which Henry T. Scott was chairman, the Congressional delegation from the State of California, accompanied by Governor Gage, went to Redlands for the purpose of meeting and greeting the President and his party on their arrival in California."

"The delegation comprised Governor Gage and wife, Senators Peckins and Hard, Representatives Lusk, Kahn, Nordham, McLaughlin and myself. Representative Combs was to have been present, but was unavoidably detained."

AT REDLANDS.

"We left Oakland pier Monday evening, and arrived in Redlands Tuesday night. The Presidential train was scheduled to arrive in Redlands at 4 o'clock Wednesday, and promptly to the minute the train reached its destination."

"The President and Mrs. McKinley, with the Cabinet and the President's guests, were taken in carriages to the Castle Loma Hotel."

"School children lined both sides of the street and covered the entire driveway with leafy flowers."

"On arrival at the castle Loma the Governor was presented by Senator Perkins, the dean of the California delegation, to the President, Mrs. McKinley and the members of the Cabinet."

GAGE SPEAKS.

"There was no delay. The party was at once taken to a platform, where the Governor delivered to the President his address of welcome. During the delivery of the address the Governor was applauded by the President and members of the Cabinet, and the speech was pronounced by the President and Cabinet and others as the best of the kind they had heard delivered since they left Washington."

REDLANDS IS BEAUTIFUL.

"Redlands is the most beautiful city of its size in the Union. Many wealthy citizens of the East have settled there and built magnificent homes. Shirley Brothers have donated to the city a public library and a grand public park, which is a gem. The park was driven through, this park, then through a number of orange groves and then through the private park of Shirley Brothers. The grounds of Shirley Brothers were all in the highest state of cultivation. The road wound around the house, and in many places there were deep cuts on both sides of which were walls of solid masonry covered with vines and flowers."

FLOWERS EVERYWHERE.

"I never saw flowers in such profusion, and the ladies of the party could hardly find words in which to express their delight. One lady of the party said she went to stop right there and settle in Redlands."

"There was not a single hitch in the proceedings. Many of the young men of the town, mounted on handsome horses, acted as aides, and there was no confusion or interference with the parade."

"The town was beautifully decorated. Several arches were erected. One, especially, was not only beautiful in design but also in ornamentation. It was an arch of the centurion order. There was an immense ball on the top, which was made of oranges, and the decorations of the arch were all of oranges, grape fruit and lemons."

"The roads and drives were sprinkled, in some cases, all being used for the purpose."

"The party arrived at the depot at 11 o'clock to 12. The President made a short address, as did also Secretary Hay. Promptly at 12 o'clock the train left for Los Angeles."

AT LOS ANGELES.

"At Los Angeles the party was met by the Reception Committee and escorted to the Van Nuys Hotel, where it was joined by Secretary of the Navy Long. I came in unknown and unannounced and walked to the hotel with my grip in my hand. He didn't let them know he was coming, otherwise he would have been met at the depot."

STREET'S THROGGLED.

"There was over 100,000 people on the Los Angeles streets. There was such a mass of humanity that it was almost impossible to force one's way through."

"The President was greeted in the Van Nuys Hotel by a mammoth club composed of forty or fifty members who played a number of musical airs."

"An address of welcome was delivered by the Mayor of Los Angeles in the lobby of the hotel, to which the President made response."

"The guests were then opened and a number of people paid their respects, but the crowd was so immense that the doors had to be closed."

"All the business streets of Los Angeles were decorated. All the buildings on the line of march were decorated from top to bottom."

"The guests were then opened and a number of people paid their respects, but the crowd was so immense that the doors had to be closed."

"The guests were then opened and a number of people paid their respects, but the crowd was so immense that the doors had to be closed."

POLITICAL GOSSIP OF THE STATE.

How Alameda County Some Inside Stories
Will Figure in State About the Fair
Politics. Estate.

BY GEORGE F. HATTON.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—What will Alameda county want on the State ticket? That is the question the politicians are beginning to ask as they watch the way things are developing. That it will insist upon recognition in some quarter goes without saying. Although the banner was wrested away from it at the last election by the phenomenal Republican vote cast in San Francisco it is nevertheless considered the headquarters of the party and as such is entitled to a full share of honors and fishes when the distribution takes place.

Just where the demand will be made though is a puzzle. For a long time it was thought that it had first call on heading the ticket with the gubernatorial nominee but subsequent events have cut out that part of the program and it looks as if Alameda county will be about as staid as the interests of the county at the other end of the State.

For Lieutenant Governor, Senator Cullen of Marysville is being advocated by some of the leading members of the party and as he stands high in its councils and has the additional prestige of being secretary of the Republican State Central Committee he has a first class chance of getting the nomination if he decides to make a contest for it. Should he not, however, it is pointed out that Alameda county can rest the Lieutenant Governorship for the mere asking if it wants that place and nothing more, as some ambitious wights will probably start in setting their caps for it without further ado.

The nomination for Secretary of State seems to have too many strings on it in Alameda county to make it likely that Alameda county can be considered in that connection. Curry has got the leading political influences at his back for a starter, and as San Francisco is sure to go for him solid it looks as if the first mortgage he appears to hold upon his present job is of the gilt-edged kind.

The Controllership is tied up about as securely in Colman's interests as the Secretary of State is for Curry. Colman is at present posing as a candidate for Governor but down in his heart he is doubtless figuring upon remaining where he is for four years more instead of moving across the hall into the Governor's office.

There is a possibility that the State Treasurer may be put up for competition, for although Truman Reeves is a capable official and is well liked, that place on the ticket is likely to be used to settle up sectional claims. San Bernardino will be just as ardent in its interests as it was in 1898 and may succeed in finding him again but, as in the case of the Lieutenant Governorship, Alameda county could name the custodian of the State pocket book if it would center its energy in that direction.

For Attorney General, Tidy L. Ford seems too well entrenched to make it likely that any Alameda county man could take away his official shoes. In the first place he has been for some time engaged in a long-distance campaign to succeed himself and furthermore he is backed by the miners and is also prominent in all the local party organizations. Where he has made a lot of political capital is along the way where the occasion offered, for being a good appearance and address and with the faculty of making friends, he has built up lots of popularity that way.

Alameda county might have a chance to name the Surveyor General, that is if M. J. Wright should decide that his health will not permit him to undergo another campaign. If he toes the line for the race again though he will probably meet with little opposition, for the same influences that have so often won out for him in the past will be exerted in his favor again.

There is a strong belief too that George W. Root will land the Clerkship of the Supreme Court for a second term. He will have to face the opposition of the Call it is true but as the backing of Colonel Burns which would more than offset the antagonism of the Spreckels end of it.

WHERE OAKLAND WILL FIGURE.
Where Alameda county will undoubtedly be heard from is as regards the nomination for Superintendent of Public Instruction. P. M. Fisher of Oakland has for many years been ambitious to secure the office and wears the scars of many a hard-fought contention to prove the trials and tribulations he has undergone. He may have a good opportunity this time and that he will be heard from in some way regarding it is about as sure a thing as it is that the State Convention will be held.

that exist in the cases of Knight & Heggerty and the other attorneys associated with the litigation.

The acquisition of this $100,000 puts Budd upon a firm financial footing for he is already reputed to be worth between $50,000 and $75,000 most of which however is in land. With this additional bank account of $100,000 ready money it can be seen that he becomes more of a factor than ever for the United States Senatorship should the Legislature become Democratic for he will be able to fight Phelan or any other moneyed candidate with their own weapons.

Those who have been figuring upon the Fair estate litigation say that altogether well over a million dollars will have been paid out for litigation by the time the property is distributed so in his efforts to keep his efforts from his children the old Senator laid the foundation for the capture of a good share of his estate by outside hands in addition to which his plans are all defeated in the end.

SYLVA'S PICK-UP.

Gossphers say that one of the recipients of bounty will be Adolph Sylva of Sausalito poolroom fame. The next day, according to rumor will fall to his lot is the tidy sum of $30,000 and represents his reward for the ingenuity he displayed in getting Mrs. Craven into the Sausalito marriage trap. Sylva who is a shrewd man with a diving rod faculty for locating money saw his opportunity when he made the acquaintance of Charles Fair in connection with the pool-rooms. Fair who has for years been Joe Harvey's backer in gambling enterprises is credited to possess a half interest in the poolroom syndicate that exists in Marin county and which is protected by Sylva in his capacity as chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Judging by the reports that come from across the bay though, Fair, Harvey, Sylva, et al will soon have to find some other field for operations, for Sylva's term ends next spring and the hill tribes of Sausalito—as the reformers are called over that way—are going to prevent his re-election at all hazards. As they succeeded in knocking out his nominee this spring despite a most vigorous contest on the part of Sylva and his moneyed friends it looks as if they are in a position to complete the clearance next year for if they can elect a trustee in Sylva's place they will have control of the Board and can then pass ordinances to suit themselves.

THE RACING SITUATION.

As far as appearances go therefore, this summer will witness the last poolroom season in Sausalito and it will be a short harvest at that, for the race track is remaining open much longer than usual and is in consequence cutting deeply into their harvest. In past years the races have always been over long before this time whereas now there are no indications even of when the Oakland track will close its gates. Some say that racing will be continued there until June 15th; others assert that July 4th will witness the end of the season while a third, and smaller contingent claims that the California Club will run all summer.

This last contention is improbable, however, for now that Tom Williams is in full control of the winter racing in California he will not jeopardize so rich and fruitful a business by keeping the Oakland track open while the District Fair is in progress. To do so would mean that there would be a lack of horses for the racing meets at those local gatherings which might result in an attempt at the next session of the Legislature to limit the winter season. In order to avoid a possibility of this nature, therefore, President Williams will doubtless close down the Oakland track ahead of the date set for the first District Fair.

HATTON.

FOUND A BABY LYING IN THE ROAD.

Yesterday the driver of a meat wagon found a small child about a year and a half old lying in the road. At first he thought the child had been run over by a wagon, and took it to the Receiving Hospital. Upon examination it was found that the child was uninjured but very sick. The child was finally identified as being that of James Donovan, who lives at 259 Second street.

A "KNOCKER."

Found on Many Tables.
People will "stuck" themselves with coffee and then hunt around for medicine to cure them of the trouble coffee produces, but they keep on drinking coffee and making new diseases right along. That is some people do. There are thoughtful people, however, and their number is growing greatly every month, who prefer good, sturdy health to sickness, and they leave off coffee because it is a drug that produces disease.

Many people have to learn that this is true by hard knocks, and they get the knocks all right if they stick to coffee.

Mrs. Ida M. Nowtice, of Anderson, S. C., says, "For two years or more before leaving off coffee and beginning the use of Postum Food Coffee, my health became very much impaired, as I discovered afterward, from coffee drinking."

"I suffered from shortness of breath, pains about the heart, and the slightest exertion completely exhausted me. My digestion was bad and gas would form in the stomach, rendering me wretched, and my life a burden. Medicine did not help the trouble. I was on the eve of giving up in despair when my attention was attracted to the statement that coffee caused some of the symptoms that I had. I determined to abandon it and try Postum Food Coffee."

"I had the Postum well made and the result during the past twelve months has been something wonderful. All of the old troubles left. I have been in excellent health, and my friends all notice it and speak of it. I never lose an opportunity of telling them that the change in my health was caused by leaving off a drug called coffee and taking on a liquid food drink like Postum."

"No argument from any source could convince me to the contrary of what I have found out. I have seen much the same results in my sister's family and among other acquaintances."

Rates.

The Expressmen's and Draymen's Association of Alameda county has issued the following circular:

"To the Merchants of San Francisco, Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley—Gentlemen: We, the undersigned express and draymen, members of the Expressmen's and Draymen's Association of Alameda county, would respectfully represent to you the following facts:

"That the keen competition among the expressmen and draymen resulted in our being obliged to reduce our rates to a most unprofitable basis.

"Within the past two years there has been a great increase in cost of material used in our business without any increase whatever in our rates.

"Commenting on the first of May we have been forced through demands made by the Brotherhood of Teamsters to not only increase our payments for wages but to make many other concessions to our drivers that greatly increase the expenses attached to our business, to such an extent that many of us are doing work at an actual loss.

"Under the circumstances it will be necessary for all of us to ask you to concede such increase in rates as will allow us to continue business, and we trust to receive your favorable consideration. Yours respectfully,

STOLE THE BEDSPREAD FROM HIS ROOM.

James Riley languishes in a cell at the city prison, and his name graces the "small book." He will have to answer to a charge of petty larceny, because he carried off the bedspread of the bed he occupied at the Grand Hotel, Washington street. The bedspread is valued at $1, but it may cost Riley a hundred-fold.

DECOTO HAD A VERY EARLY AUTOMOBILE.

Social and Business Life in a Lively Suburb.

DECOTO, Cal., May 11.—From "Astoria," a spiritual monthly published in Decoto, the subjoined article is taken concerning a Decoto man and his invention, an automobile. The vehicle in question created quite a stir in town at the time, and many ladies were favorably impressed with it. It is held by Mr. Whipple that it is a "ladies' man," he did not, however, make a great success of his effort, and instead of exhibiting his inventive genius further, let the matter drop.

PIONEER "AUTO."

"To Rufus Whipple must be accorded the construction of the first automobile in the State of California. True it was, 'his true, in construction, but it held the motive power that has developed into the horseless carriages seen daily on our thoroughfares."

"This announcement is made in justice to this gentleman, who is an old resident of this county, as well as to record the fact that the writer, by invitation of Mr. Whipple, took a ride in his vehicle in the month of September, 1891. Like many others, he has failed to do himself justice in this matter, being numbered in his inventive genius while others have carried off the prize."

SCHOOL CENSUS.

The census of the Decoto school district has been completed and shows as follows: Census children, 255; attending school, 141; children who do not go to school, 114; children under 5 years of age, 222. This is an increase of nine over last year's number of census children.

A SOCIAL DANCE.

A social dance was given in the Decoto Town Hall last Saturday evening by Joe Swartz, Manuel Swartz and H. B. and W. P. Machado, four Portuguese young men of Alviso. About forty couples were in attendance and a jolly time was experienced by all. A splendid supper was served, to which all did justice. The music for the affair was furnished by the Machado brothers.

A GARDEN PARTY.

Miss Zady Whipple gave a garden party to her immediate relatives and a few neighbors at the home of J. J. Whipple, near Decoto, last Saturday afternoon. About thirty people were present. Lawn tennis was played by the younger members of the company, the older folks making themselves busy looking on and chatting among themselves. A delicious luncheon was served under the big trees during the afternoon.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETING.

The Washington Township Women's Club met at the home of Mrs. C. C. Crane Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. J. H. Hayes acting as hostess. Forty ladies from all over the township were present. The feature of the program was a lecture by Mrs. Johnson of San Francisco on parliamentary rules, on which subject the lady spoke very learnedly. Past Master rendered a phone song and Miss Ella Whipple a vocal solo.

STILL PICKING PLANS.

Joe Smith, who has rented the Crane orchard, has about twenty-seven Japanese picking men on the place and up to Thursday night 28 sacks, or 2,800 pounds, of pears had been shipped to a fruiting company in San Francisco. Twelve bushels of apples are also being picked here.

It will take at least three weeks more to harvest the crop. Mr. Smith contracted to sell them early in the season for $2.50 a ton and will make quite a goodly sum on his crop.

HOKING SUGAR BEETS.

Sugar beet farmers are busily engaged in hoking their crop, employing all the men they can get hold of, as to get them done before the weeds get the start of them. The late rain and heavy dew of good and quick work has been a wonderful help to the farmers.

It did the crop would have been expected to be a big crop is expected.

THE TOWN HALL.

From time to time this correspondence has had occasion to refer to the Decoto Town Hall. For the collection of readers it may be stated that the hall is a lay-out. It is quite good enough for Decoto at present, although it is rumored that a certain party in town is contemplating the building a hall in the future. Probably this will materialize when the new station does.

CHAMPION TROUT FISHER.

The champion trout fisher of Decoto is probably Frank Kelly. The young man has whiped all the streams about here for the speckled beauties, and never comes home without a good string. Forty-eight 10 lb. fish to his rod and line on today this week, while he considers ten or fifteen a small catch.

NEW BIKES.

The three Batello boys are the proud possessors of an equal number of bikes purchased recently, and are out daily warming up the road and setting a pace.

AGUINALDO ONLY PUPPET IN HANDS OF COMPATRIOTS

I have spent no little time in studying Emilio Aguinaldo. Arriving in Manila bay with the first expedition to the Philippines in the spring of 1898, I saw Aguinaldo several times at Cavite and in front of Manila as an ally of Uncle Sam. After the fall of the latter city, on August 12, 1898, until six or seven weeks before the outbreak of the new insurrection on February 4, 1899, I repeatedly visited Aguinaldo at Baguio and afterward at Malolos, where he moved his "government."

Personally Aguinaldo made a very poor appearance. He certainly did not look like a man who had much brain power. One could find any number of Tagalogs in Manila whose faces portrayed more intelligence than did that of the man they had chosen as their leader. I was surprised to find that certain members of Aguinaldo's Cabinet spoke of the facial characteristics of their President in a most disrespectful manner. In fact, it was from a few casual remarks on such subjects that I obtained my first inkling of what I later became firmly convinced that Aguinaldo was merely a figurehead, a tool in the hands of clever men like Mabini and the elder Paterno.

KEEPS HIS MOUTH SHUT.
Aguinaldo had learned from some source that a still silence gave an impression of depth and keen perception. I have been present at more than one interview in which an attempt was made to draw him out, but generally with little or no success. I am convinced that constant intercourse with Aguinaldo was what caused the bravest and most popular of his generals to despise him thoroughly. This General's open statement regarding the poor opinion in which he held Aguinaldo subsequently led that worthy to operate successfully a plot in which his subordinate was assassinated. That incident lost the insurgent President many friends, but the true story of the assassination was so manipulated by Aguinaldo's supporters that few of the Filipino people ever knew the truth regarding the matter.

I believe it was a General named Pilo Pilo, who was captured near Manila in May of last year, who first started the story of Aguinaldo's supernatural powers. Pilo's following chiefly came from a province called Cavite, which lay just south of the city of Manila, and was the worst hot bed of insurrection in the island of Luzon. Pilo commenced to work on the ignorance and superstition of the natives of Cavite province, which is peopled by Tagalogs, the dominant race in the Philippines, by claiming familiarity with the spirit world, and making prophecies based on revelations which had come to him in the form of dreams.

During the months immediately prior to the insurgent outbreak, when the insurgents were straining every nerve to prepare themselves for the struggle which they had decided to make in the name of liberty, Pilo Pilo decided to strengthen the cause of Aguinaldo by proclaiming him in league with the powers of the air, or some kindred supernatural agency. Some stories were affixed to the effect that the President had been seen at night, during a fierce storm, riding his horse through the skies in order that he might visit the various parts of his army in the same night.

NATIVE SUPERSTITION.
I remember talking with a native at Tarlac, a town in the province which afterward saw the last stand of the so-called government of the Republic of the Philippines, who told me of the following incident: During the first insurrection of the Filipinos against the Spaniards a battalion of insurgents was engaged in a midnight attack on a portion of the Spanish line not far from Manila. The fierceness of the onslaught resulted in the retreat of the enemy. In the moment of victory the little band suddenly discovered that their front and both flanks were covered by an advancing Spanish brigade. They had commenced a retreat, which meant great loss, when they were rallied by no less a personage than Aguinaldo himself, who, bareheaded and with a naked sword in his hand, led them toward the enemy, instead of away from them, finally turning apparent defeat into victory and causing the ignominious retreat of the Spaniards. But the strangest part of the story was that at the time Aguinaldo was seen to rally the demoralized battalion and lead it in so successful an onslaught he was known to be quietly sleeping in his own tent, miles and miles away.

Now, that native was a rich man, and in many ways was an intelligent one. He had daughters who had received splendid musical educations in France and Germany, and sons who were graduates of the colleges of Manila and Hong Kong. Yet it was no more possible to shake his belief in the truth of that story than it was to make him a white man. The way in which he clung to the belief in the semi-divinity of Aguinaldo was typical of the light in which most natives who were not blessed with sufficient education to wash away their indurate superstition looked upon "El Presidente."

So when, in the fall of 1900, the armies of Generals MacArthur and Lawton had practically swept Northern Luzon clear of insurgent bodies of any size, when the Tarlac government had been relegated to oblivion, when every member of Aguinaldo's old Cabinet was either a prisoner in Manila, on parole, or dead; when the United States troops of the invaluable and tardily supplied cavalry were scouring the country for the insurgent leader, the most optimistic shook their heads and sighed.

Men were found who were willing to help the newcomers to catch lesser offenders, but no native dared to even consider the possibility of planning for the capture of Aguinaldo. In the very northernmost province of the island of Luzon, at a time when Aguinaldo was supposed to be in the vicinity of the near-by mountains, I interviewed a few Filipinos who had been particularly loyal to the Americans and brought about the capture of the insurgent leaders in that district. They told me what I had heard from one end of the island to another, that no native dared to plot against Aguinaldo, for the reason that he was like a god, and could discover their plans by some occult means, of which they understood no more than that they were greatly to be feared.

Thus it may be easily understood that to many natives whose ideas of the meaning of such words as "liberty" and "independence" were most vague, Aguinaldo represented "the republic." With him at large, the vagaries of the native mind regarding the future were legion. With his capture came out a spark of hope, which is all that the Filipinos, as a race, have had to cling to for many a long month.—London News.

SHE TELLS OF LATEST STYLE.

Some Points of Interest for the Swell Set.

NEW YORK, April 21.—There is a sort of furry in wool material rivalled for no one in the after years of neglect; this is the welcome back given to Paris prints. In days of yore every woman in summer wore calicoes or percale and from France and England our own domestic cotton mills they are turning out calicoes that are as lovely as portraits. The French send us true prints, that is, cotton of a soft finish, its background white, with clear pale blue rings and black dots thereon, or faint blue cottons that are printed in black, white and blue dots. From England we gladly receive the true old style cottons, sprinkled over with the same quaint and dainty mixture of very bright flowers that are seen in Milton and old fashioned simple Worcester china. Most of these English and French calicoes are worn with borders that are happily utilized in the make-up of the country costume, for it is hardly the best time to wear a lace and embroidery in its garbment of a simple print dress.

From our own home they are turning out the lovely cotton goods flowered over in bold brocade and costume designs. Furthermore, these American calicoes are treated with a rich surface finish that gives them the gloss of silk, but it is not the simplicity and softness of the fabric.

There is no need for the rich and proud to turn up their noses at this popularity of plebeian cotton for the dressmaker, who knows their business, are lavishing on some of these mill-made chintzes the best efforts of their art. A pretty bordered French print substituted in an elegant illustration this very point. A gown sweetly ornate enough for a garden party or a lively spring luncheon in this one. On its slightly glazed cream white surface things of bright blue, yellow, black, pink and red are scattered, with points of black sprinkled at large here and there.

Two wide, full gathered ruffled flounces are headed by the collar and over bodice, in which black-purplish and violet blue and purple sweet peas and bright green leaves are mingled. At the top of the skirt, on the collar and sleeve the border is again used, and a black gros grain ribbon laces the fronts of the waist over the yoke and vest of white flannel tucked namoak.

A black stryie surrounded pink roses makes the little skirt complete.

Beck's glazed English chintzes, with small edibles and French prints, in this era, when a certain simple style of dress is more or less in vogue, we have gone back again to serge as the best of the light summer woods after all. Women are going to the seashore and mountain resorts, where hot days are delicate, fully few are having the smartest chambray serge made up. These are of the close, the French weave in navy blue, changing to green in the folds, or of light green, showing warm violet in certain lights. For the droll of this new goods tulle's stamping is very popular and a gown accompanying the text shows how a changeable brown and red serge is striped in bands of dull chambray red tulle. A cheerful red blouse of tulle shows its full lower half and bishop sleeves below the short coat and the brief sleeves thereon.

Now that we have tried flannel waists of every cut and color, this astonishing modesty is for short waists of mohair. There seems a danger that before the ever increasing number of satin dotted, tucked, or crepe, draped, beaded and embroidered mohair shirts will be wholly forgotten. The mohair blouses are truly beautiful and with a richly textured, and according to the very latest mode of cutting these garments they are made to span over the head, as a man's shirt does, with just sufficient opening down the back from the collar and to the shoulder blades to enable the wearer to put her arms safely into the sleeves. When the shirt is drawn on it must have its fullness of gathers under the skirt's band, and though many women cavil at the reason of a garment which must be so awkwardly entered, the fit thereby insured is none the less quite beyond criticism.

To the making of trains there is no end, though head bows and prettiness and the women themselves have sadly sprained wrists because of the necessity

WALKED MANY MILES WITH HER FOUR CHILDREN.

Trundling two small children in a baby carriage and carrying two other children, John William Booth and his wife arrived in New York yesterday. They had walked all the way from Fayette City, Pa., 476 miles. They left the little mining town last January. The father and the mother had taken on themselves all the hardships of the weary journey was proven by their emaciated and their travel-stained appearance. The four children were fat, hearty, well clad. Plainly, they had had good care. Mrs. Booth is 33 years of age; her husband is 45. He is an Englishman, and he wants to take his family to the old country.

"If we have to go to the almshouse," said he, "it must be in a country that I have done a little for."

Two years ago Booth and his family emigrated to Canada. Early last year he went to work for the Pittsburgh Coal Company there. He says he was guaranteed $125 a day by the company to dig coal, and he was told he would have an increase of salary as fast as he learned the business.

The company gave him a shanty, and he was told to take boarders if he could get them. They had two boarders for awhile. After they left Booth found himself getting deeper and deeper into the company's debt. He had to deal at the company's store, he had to pay for everything he used in mining at the end of each week, he owed money to the company. In January his debt was more than $200. He had the company's account slips to prove this.

He says that even the single men of the company's employees are lucky if they are paid $125 at the end of the week. Eighty-two people work for the company. Booth says he does not know who composes it.

So, hopelessly in debt, penniless, Booth and his wife started for New York about. Small Robert and John William traveled in style in the baby carriage, the mother carried Sarah Ann; her father carried Mary Jane and let her walk once in awhile.

The poor mother in each town they passed through gave them food and shelter, the charitable cheered them on their long way. They suffered severely from cold, but their clothing was strong and warm. Often the father and mother were hungry, but the children rarely. Booth did odd jobs along the route.

Booth went to Superintendent Meera of the employment bureau at the Barge Office, and entered a complaint against the Pittsburgh Coal Company. Meera referred him to the Legal Aid Society, which will try to get redress for him if the coal company does business in this State.

Superintendent Blair of the Outdoor Poor will take care of the traveled family for awhile.

THE PROFITS IN HONESTY.

Politician Has Sore Experiences in Playing at Square Game.

"I am inclined to doubt that well worn theory that honesty is the best policy," said the reformed politician, speaking above a whisper for the first time in many years.

"At least, in some cases it is not a good policy. If you are a family to provide for and a hunkering on the principle that a candidate in office was worth two in the convention, and I guess I would be about right if I made that policy apply in the matter of dollars. I was brought forcibly to this conclusion just the other day, and I hope I have extracted the proper significance from an incident that I fell in with at the Union depot Friday morning. I had arisen from my breakfast with that wholesome twinging of peace with my fellow man that can only come to a politician who has left off his habits, and I strolled to my depot from an instinctive desire to study human nature in the passing crowds. You know a man, when he is in politics, looks at human nature in only one way. Every voter he sees puts in his mind the question, 'What ward does he live in? Is he a Republican or a Democrat? If a Democrat, is he a Shannon or a Pendegast man? If a Republican, does he ally with the boxers or the City Hall crowd?' These questions will set a politician to delving for mine man's appearance, the correct answer, and there are the bounds of his philosophy. Well, as I strolled in the runway leading to the depot the place was empty, and I walked along with my hand in my pockets and with my eyes on the ground. I found myself wondering how many feet had trod those same boards before me, and there came to me visions of sweethearts going to say good-bye at the train. Hoping couples, brides and grooms, escaping criminals, theatrical troupes stepping lightly in the thought that they were really going to take it to the next stand, mourners going to follow the dead brother in the baggage car ahead, millionaires, emigrants—

"In just about this point of my reflections I saw a few feet ahead of me a fat looking pocketbook lying at the head of the stairs. I think my first impulse was to see if anyone was looking in order that I might pick it up unobserved and count my money at a later time. At any rate I found myself hurrying toward the purse, and almost before I knew it I had it in my hand. I turned suddenly to see if I was unobserved, and I was much embarrassed to find a young man staring at me from one of the office doors. I turned round, I know, and thinking of nothing better I might pick it up unobserved and count my money at a later time. At any rate I found myself hurrying toward the purse, and almost before I knew it I had it in my hand. IN THE FIELD OF LITERATURE.

New Publications Out During the Week.

"Martin Brook" is the third of twelve American novels which are to be published by Harper & Brothers during this year, written by American authors and dealing with different phases of American life. The scene opens in the administration of President Fillmore and extends, thenceforward, to the close of the Civil War. The phase of national life which the work aims to illustrate is the existence of slavery in this country with its collateral features of human beings as property, the right of slave owners to pursue and reclaim their stolen property, the "Fugitive Slave Law," that mysterious and sympathetic friends of the slave who extended across the country to Canada and who aided runaway negroes in making their escape through the rush and woods, across rivers, over mountains, pursued by remorseless hunters, blood-thirsty hounds as they sought liberty beyond the borders of the nation.

There is no cruelty to which these cringing, despising slaves were not subjected when overtaken by their pursuers and brought back to captivity. Neither could more heroic have been displayed than that which the members of the underground railroad displayed in helping the slaves on to a place of freedom. The hero of the story is Martin Brook, a free-born, a young man, a farmer to whom his father had relinquished him. As a child, he becomes a prize of "Judge" Northcote, who gives him an American name, a Methodist minister and espouses the cause of the runaway slave despite the fact that, in several instances, he is driven from his church by anti-slaveryists. His mother, in behalf of liberty for the slaves are broken up by rioters. Then comes the Civil War and, at its close, when the right to liberty of colored man has been guaranteed, he appears before a conference to speak upon the subject and in giving expression to his gratification, his feelings carry him away, he is stricken with heart failure and dies in the presence of the people whom his patriotism and devotion had enthused and whom eloquence had charmed.

The book is by Morgan Russell. It is written in a carefully scholarly manner. The diction is elegant, the sequence of fact is maintained in a skillful manner, and some of the descriptions of character, especially that of Judge Northcote, are gems of their kind. Historically, the workings of the "underground railway" will be interesting and instructive to a great many readers, which is a thing about it that no actual experience. The book is nicely bound by Harper & Bros., New York and sells for $1.50.

"A Queen of Hearts" by Elizabeth Phillips Train, which has just been published in the series of Lippincott's Select Novels, is the latest work of its well known author. It is a biography of a young woman, the daughter of a poor country girl who became famous by a gay young French tutor and subsequently became his wife only to be deserted by him before their child was born. The story is told in a novel, however, caused the fortune of the mother. The daughter finally becomes the ward of a clergyman in a dull village the surroundings of which is a kitchen garden, a fat hen, a cow, or which are vegetables. She goes to school, then to the local academy and longs for freedom from restraint and the enjoyment which freedom gives. On a certain day, under pretense that she is sick, she is excused from school and rushes into the open, her soul quivering with delight. With her soul in flight, she runs to the shore. Her father, the rector's home had not made her religious. On the contrary, she secretly hates religion because of the privations and austerities. Keenly as she dislikes religion, she loves all kinds of excitement and above and beyond every other exercise, she loves that of dancing. With her, it is a passion. On the day she leaves the academy, she rushes to the home of an old, shrewd man who plays the violin. She begs him to play for her that she may dance. The old man grants the request and, with her, she dances. The music is wild and away by the music and dances until she falls in a stupor on the floor where she is found by her guardian. To her surprise, he makes her his wife, but she leaves him, gravitates to the stage, attains renown. One night she is dining at a swell restaurant in New York with millionaires when the father accuses her and is scorned by her and her friends. As she is driving away from the place her carriage is overturned in a runaway. She is killed and her father is transferred to death by the horses which he attempts to stop in their mad career.

The story is most cleverly told. It is written by a woman who is mistress of the art of describing a person's passions and emotions and at times, some of the passages suggest the intensity of Amelie Rivers in "The Quaker and the Dead." In paper, it may be had at Lippincott's, 224 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, for 50 cents.

"War's Brighter Side" is the title of a book which is invested with a unique interest both by the singularly attractive quality of the contents, which include the stories, poems, and sketches of some of the most popular modern authors, and also by the peculiar conditions under which these stories were written.

When the British army was at Bloemfontein, preparing for the march to Pretoria, Lord Roberts took advantage of the presence of the most brilliant group of writers ever brought together by a general, and requested them to make a newspaper for the army. The result was something which deserves to be called unique. The four editors—Kipling, Rudyard Kipling, and Landon—selected Mr. Kipling to act as editor of this book which contains the best of the stories and poems contributed to "The Friend" and also the best of the editorials and conditions under which the paper was prepared. The humorous and the exasperating features of newspaper editing and publication in the field are vividly sketched by Mr. Kipling, who has improved to the full the delightful opportunities afforded by the strange experiences of this rare band of editors. The illustrations, by Kipling, Kipling, and many other full-page pictures. A book so rich on the literary side, and so picturesque and extraordinary in the circumstances of its origin,

SOLVING A MYSTERY.

"An Englishwoman's Love Letters" are charming reading, and the interest in them is increasing both in England and this country, due as much to the mystery that surrounds them as to their literary merit. This interest has been intensified during the past week by the writer's friends relating by giving out for publication the letters to which they are in reply—those she received from the man, that "An Englishwoman's Love Letters" are genuine is now generally believed, for not only have all known authors denied connection with them, but all claims by unknown authors have been shown to be fraudulent.

The replies are prefaced by a letter from Annette Mathews, of Stockton-on-Tees, the Nanman of the woman's letters, explaining that by the order of her mistress she put them in the coffin, but that they were taken from it by some one rearranging the coffin, who failed to replace them. Her friends then told the public in revenge for the publication of her mistress's letters. With this clue, the names of the parties to the correspondence cannot long remain a mystery. A very unsavory scandal may yet grow out of it, for the reason why the marriage was broken off, which placed the woman in the position of a mistress, even if the English society as it has not been shocked in many years.

An Englishwoman's Love Letters" bear all the marks of genuineness, and it is plain they have not been edited; that they are printed as written. At the beginning he tells her that he is not a letter writer, but that he is, but they are far and away better and more interesting even than hers, while the tragedy they reveal shows very clearly why he does not wish them to be published.

The letters reveal him as a brilliant, versatile man of the world, finely educated, with a wide range of knowledge, a keen sense of humor, and a deep understanding of life. He is not a letter writer, but he is, but they are far and away better and more interesting even than hers, while the tragedy they reveal shows very clearly why he does not wish them to be published.
